Seen & Heard Around Murray

Fellow says a dog can win friends and influence people without ever reading a book.

Two elderly ladies were flying in a commercial plane, both for the first time in their lives. The aircraft touched down in Cleveland and a red truck sped out to its side to refuel the plane. The ship landed next in Memphis and again a red truck sped up to it.

The first lady looked at her watch and turned to her companion. "This plane," she said, "makes wonderful time."

"Yes," agreed the other woman, "and that red truck isn't doing badly either."

Fellow says he came from a small town where the main pastime is getting up. For entertainment everybody goes down to J. C. Penney and watch them unload trucks. For special excitement they sit around and change the flint in their lighters.

The trash can under the counter in the kitchen gets full quicker than you can say Rumpelstiltskin, so we generally get us a big sack, like groceries come in, and proceed to empty it. For some reason we get the idea that this is more convenient than taking the whole thing out to the trash barrel.

All goes well until we come to the coffee grounds and we find it is utterly impossible to transfer these to the big sack without dropping some on the floor. Since they are about dry, if an end of a carton flips up, it can scatter coffee grounds over a wide area, and generally does.

We will learn some day to just take the whole thing and dump it. At least we think we will learn. It takes a lot of convincing some days.

Some folks have the knack of fixing most anything. Mike Stranak falls in this category.

There was an old woman who like in a shoe. She had so many children till they told her what to do. She said "What pill?"

By LUCINDA FRANKS

NEWCASTLE, England (UPI) —

Little Mary Bell, at 11, a convicted strangler, began a life of detention today. No hospital and only one prison in Britain would take her as an inmate.

Mary was found guilty Tuesday of the manslaughter on the grounds of diminished responsibility, of Martin Brown, 4, and Brian Howe, 3. Her playmate and co-defendant, Norma Bell, 13, was acquitted of both charges.

Mary has been described as a "psychopath" by psychiatrists, likened to Sengali in the courtroom, and labelled a girl of "remarkable intelligence" by Judge Ralph Cusack.

Hospitals across Britain declined to offer her treatment. "It was impossible to find an institution 'suitable for this unusual girl,'" said Judge Cusack. "The very great risk Mary represents to other children,"

Police said Mrs. Maude A. Hale, 114 North 12th Street, driving a 1958 Chevrolet two door, also going west on Main, could not stop in time to avoid hitting the Simons car.

Simons suffered from a whiplash, police said. Damage to the Simons car was on the right rear fender and rear end, and to the Hale car on the right front fender and front end.

Dr. Rainey T. Wells, Born On Christmas Day, Remains A Part Of Calloway County

By L. J. Martin
On Christmas Day 93 years ago — December 25, 1875 — a baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. K. P. Wells of Calloway County. Born under a Christmas star, the child was named Rainey Thornton Wells, destined later to establish a great university in his own back yard.

The university Dr. Wells built started as his dream of a "state normal school," while he and Mrs. Wells were rearing a family in what has since been used as the President's home. Dr. and Mrs. Wells were married December 31, 1896.

When it became known in 1922 that a state normal school was to be located in western Kentucky and another one in eastern Kentucky, Dr. Wells and interested citizens made their plans carefully. Many towns and cities in western Kentucky quite naturally wished to be chosen as the site of the new state institution. These included such cities as Paducah, Mayfield, Princeton, Henderson, Owensboro, Clinton and Murray.

Wire Stolen From Miller House Here

The house of Charles Miller on the Coles Camp Ground Road, located just off U.S. Highway 641, was broken into last night and a roll of wire valued at $300.00 was taken.

Deputy Sheriff Calton Morgan said that he was called to the Miller house this morning. The house has been moved from U.S. Highway 641, across from Murray Memorial Gardens, to give the right of way for the four laning of the highway, and the work on the inside of the house has not been completed as yet.

Morgan said the person or persons broke the storm door and cut the electric cables at the fuse box. No one is now living in the house.

The deputy sheriff said another house also in the process of being relocated next door was also broken into; however it is thought the person or persons were frightened away as the house was evidently not entered. A window in the house had been taken out for the person or persons to gain entry.

Sunday night the home of James Dale Miller on U.S. Highway 641 was entered and a number of items were stolen which was reported in Tuesday's issue of the Ledger & Times.

Dr. Rainey T. Wells, Born On Christmas Day, Remains A Part Of Calloway County

By L. J. Martin
On Christmas Day 93 years ago — December 25, 1875 — a baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. K. P. Wells of Calloway County. Born under a Christmas star, the child was named Rainey Thornton Wells, destined later to establish a great university in his own back yard.

The university Dr. Wells built started as his dream of a "state normal school," while he and Mrs. Wells were rearing a family in what has since been used as the President's home. Dr. and Mrs. Wells were married December 31, 1896.

Locating the state normal school in Murray was not exactly a Christmas "gift," but it undoubtedly was the most significant addition the city and county ever received.

When it became known in 1922 that a state normal school was to be located in western Kentucky and another one in eastern Kentucky, Dr. Wells and interested citizens made their plans carefully. Many towns and cities in western Kentucky quite naturally wished to be chosen as the site of the new state institution. These included such cities as Paducah, Mayfield, Princeton, Henderson, Owensboro, Clinton and Murray.

At this time Dr. Wells was a distinguished lawyer as well as tax commissioner in Kentucky. He served three terms in the Kentucky General Assembly. He spearheaded a drive to raise $100,000 in local contributions as a guarantee of the support to construct an administration building for the new normal school.

It was to be located actually in his back yard, just a few feet from his spacious country home. At this time, Murray was a small but thriving city in rural west Kentucky. The townspeople and residents of the county raised the $100,000 and the Murray State Normal School was legally established.

Dr. Wells in later years never tired of paying tribute to his associates: "These are fine people, earnest, hard-working, loyal Kentuckians," he would say.

With Dr. John W. Carr as the first President, Murray State opened its doors on September 24, 1923, with a total enrollment of 173 students and three members of the faculty. Dr. J. W. Carr, whose birthday likewise was in December, served as first President until 1926, when Dr. Wells came home to assume the presidency of his beloved college. Not only was he instrumental in establishing the college in Murray, but he led the fight for taxes and appropriations for all institutions of higher learning in Kentucky.

Energetic, resourceful and indomitable, Dr. Wells instilled a spirit among the students and faculty that made Murray State known in Kentucky as well as in the Southland for its vigor and leadership. He named the varsity teams the "Thoroughbreds" and adopted the replica of the head of Man O' War for the official insignia of the athletes.

Daily convocations — they called it chapel in those days — were attended in mass by faculty and students. Frequently Dr. Wells read a chapter from the Bible, and his Christmas Chapel speech was one that left students misty-eyed and thoughtful as they prepared to go to their respective homes.

"Write your parents and tell them you'll be home for Christmas," he would say.

And years later when he was (Continued on Page Eight)

COMMUNICATION NEEDED

THE IMPORTANCE of communication between civic bodies was impressed upon us Monday night when several months of talk culminated in action which will lead to an agreement on the financing of the proposed new hospital addition.

The occasion about which we speak was a joint meeting of the Hospital Commission, some members of the Fiscal Court and several members of the City Council.

These months of indecision, misunderstanding, and vaguery between the Hospital Commission, the City Council and the Calloway Fiscal Court have delayed the construction of the proposed addition for some months, with a resulting increase in cost.

We certainly do not blame any body or individual for this delay, but we do think it points up the necessity for constant and clear communication between civic bodies. If necessary it might be in order for the City Council and the Fiscal Court to meet together three or four times a year, in a call session, so that specific problems and areas might be discussed.

No one doubts the good faith of these groups. We think the good of Murray and Calloway County is first in the minds of both of these bodies.

Usually the only issue is, how best to go about a given project.

One group has one idea and the other has another idea. These ideas can be quickly and profitably merged, changed, or agreed on at a joint meeting. The sending back and forth of resolutions, messages, etc., loses something in the personal, face-to-face approach.

Both the City Council and the Fiscal Court are elected groups. Murray is a part of Calloway County. If the city grows, so will the county, and visa versa.

Neither the city nor the county can take action without affecting the other in some way, either for the good or the bad.

Both represent the taxpayers of the city and county.

We hope that in the future when something as important as a $1,500,000 addition to the hospital is being planned, that a joint meeting of the City Council and the Calloway Fiscal Court can be held so that any differences can be ironed out at once without the costly waste of time. Since both groups are thinking of the welfare of the county as a whole, we feel sure that some compromise can be reached on most any problem.

Murray and Calloway County has been fortunate in the past with good relationship between its governing bodies and there is no reason why this cooperative attitude cannot be continued and even improved.

Blueprint For Tappan Is Finalized

The Tappan Company, Mansfield, Ohio based major appliance manufacturer, has finalized its Blueprint for the year 1969, and beyond, according to W. R. Tappan, President. Mr. Tappan indicated the Company's careful planning program which began in early August with an economic climate forecast, was culminated with a meeting of forty key executives from Tappan's country-wide operations. The group met in Mansfield, Ohio to hear division heads and Corporate staff executives project specific operational plans for the year 1969. According to Mr. Tappan, the projections are both interesting and favorable. Mr. Tappan indicated the group also had done considerable long range planning, and that a program of acquisition was a key point in the discussions. Mr. Tappan noted that the previously announced Technical Assistance Agreement with Thermo Electron Corporation provided a basis for Tappan's entry into the home air conditioning and heating field, and noted this was a likely target for penetration by Tappan.

Mr. Tappan said the Company's continuing its strong and aggressive internal program of product improvement, coupled with the corporate group's strong hold on the Company's reins, made the climate ideal for continuing and accelerating Tappan's growth through acquisition of companies in similar or related fields.

In reviewing the 1969 Blueprint, Mr. Tappan noted that the Blueprint planning technique provided for "ground up" participation by members of management at all levels in Tappan's widespread operating divisions. He said "the orderly approval of sales forecast, product planning, capital expenditures, and the finalizing of an operational plan which is thoroughly publicized to our management, provides exactly the climate needed to promote teamwork and to reach our ambitious objectives."

Thanks to a new miracle ingredient in our little car called the automatic stick shift, you can finally say goodbye to the clutch pedal. How does this new ingredient work?

Two ways. First, it provides continuous unemployment for your left foot. Second, it provides near unemployment for your right hand. (The only time you ever shift is when you go over 55 mph.) Yet, even with its new ways, the bug continues to uphold the old ways. It takes only small amounts of oil. Absolutely no water. And absolutely no antifreeze. Best of all, it still delivers about 25 miles to a gallon of gas. Don't you feel relieved already?

Four Of Nations Top 20 To See Action Tonight

By United Press International

North Carolina has a shot at top-ranked college basketball power UCLA in Madison Square Garden later this month, and the Tar Heels brushed aside another opponent Tuesday night to assure going into the confrontation with an unblemished record.

North Carolina, the No. 2 team, routed Virginia 94-67 for its fifth consecutive victory of the season and second Atlantic Coast Conference win, with all five starters hitting in double figures.

Both the Tar Heels and UCLA's Bruins are entered in the Holiday Festival tournament in New York, Dec. 27-30, and are expected to clash after disposing first round foes. UCLA still has to play

Minnesota Thursday and West Virginia Friday, both at home, before the tourney, but the Bruins should have little difficulty.

Stalling Tactics
Davidson, No. 3 in the country, also won Tuesday night, but had to freeze the ball in the final minutes to keep a hot-shooting University of Richmond team at bay, finally taking a 62-60 decision.

Sixteenth-ranked Illinois got 12 straight points to erase a 73-72 margin held by Ohio University in the second half and cruise in for a 95-82 victory, its fifth conquest in a row.

In other games Tuesday, Arkansas beat Centenary 79-50, Southwest Texas defeated Abilene Christian 84-85, Arizona trimmed Evansville 102-88, North Texas State beat Denver 94-76 and Tennessee turned back Georgia Tech 72-59.

Also, it was St. Louis over Wichita State 99-89, Minnesota over North Dakota 77-64, Georgetown over Navy 70-55, Maryland over George Washington 99-96 and Wake Forest over William and Mary 98-58.

Top Teams

Four of the nation's top 20 teams are in action tonight. Fourth-ranked Cincinnati plays California, 17th-ranked Columbia tests Fordham, 14th-ranked LaSalle meets Canisius and 19th-ranked Western Kentucky plays Butler.

In North Carolina's victory over Virginia Tuesday night, forward Bill Bunting led the Tar Heels on a spurt of 10 straight points late in the first half to take a 55-52 intermission lead and had little difficulty the remainder of the way.

Davidson, its shooting eye dulled by a week's layoff for examinations, struggled from a 36-36 halftime tie with Richmond to a 61-58 lead with 4:18 remaining. The Wildcats held the ball for 3:38 of that, but Richmond got it with 40 seconds to play and scored on a fast break to narrow the margin to one point.

The first of a 1-and-1 free throw situation widened the margin to 62-60 and a 30-foot jump shot attempt at the buzzer by Richmond missed the mark.

Ky. Wesleyan Voted No. 1 In UPI Poll

By STEVE SMILANICH

UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kentucky Wesleyan, taking a back seat to no one, is making its presence known throughout the Blue Grass state and neighboring areas.

The Panthers, boasting a 26-game win streak extending back into the 1968 campaign, were a near-unanimous choice as the No. 1 team in the latest weekly United Press International Board of Coaches ratings.

The 35-member board gave coach Bob Daniels' outfit 30 of the 35 first-place votes. Tabulated on a basis of 10 points for first place, nine for second and so on down the line, the Panthers accumulated 319 points.

The Panthers, unbeaten in five outings this season, held a commanding lead over runner-up Central State of Ohio. The Ohioans, who got one first-place vote, relied on a large number of second and third-place votes to hold the No. 2 spot with 227 points.

Third place in the weekly ratings went to Ashland Ohio with 190 points. Evansville's Purple Aces were fourth with 149 points, followed by Nevada Southern with 130 points.

Ashland, Evansville, Central State, Nevada Southern and Norfolk State received one first place vote each.

Southwest Missouri places sixth with 98 points, followed by Cheyney State 87, Southwest Louisiana 83, Gannon 81 and American International 25.

Kentucky Wesleyan picked up its fifth win of the early season campaigning Friday night by downing Arkansas State 69-64 at Jonesboro, Ark. The five wins combined with 21 consecutive victories compiled last season pushed the Panther win streak to 26.

Their 21-game win streak last season carried them to the NCAA college division championship. The Panthers beat Indiana State 63-52 in the title game at Evansville, Ind.

Green Bay Packers Bow Out In Their Own Style

UPI Sports Writer

By VITO STELLINO

The Green Bay Packers bowed out in their kind of game. The Packers, their title string ended and with several of the players who built the finest dynasty in National Football League history ready to retire, played Sunday in the style that was reminiscent of the Packers of the past.

Even though there was nothing at stake—except pride—the Packers, they went out behind a third string quarterback and edged Chicago 28-27 to knock the Bears out of contention and hand the Central Division crown to the Minnesota Vikings—who turned back Philadelphia 24-17. A game-winning interception by veteran Ray Nitschke ruined the Bears after they rallied for 17 points in the final period.

The Vikings now will go against the Baltimore Colts—who closed out their regular season with a 13-1 mark behind a "sub" quarterback named John Unitas by beating Los Angeles 28-24—in the Western Conference title game next Sunday.

Dallas wound up with the second best record this season at 12-2 as Craig Morton came off the bench in the second period to direct the Cowboys to a 28-10 victory over New York after Don Meredith completed only one of nine passes and asked to be taken out of the game.

Dallas meets Cleveland in the Eastern Conference title game in Cleveland Saturday. The Browns had their winning streak snapped by St. Louis 27-16 Saturday.

In other games Sunday, Washington nipped Detroit 14-3 and New Orleans stopped Pittsburgh 24-14.

Horn To Rescue
Don Horn, who's spent this season in the Army and was only activated by the Packers hours before the game, was rushed in at the quarterback spot when Zeke Bratkowski—subbing for injured Bart Starr—was hurt with 3:05 left in the first period.

Horn tossed touchdown passes of 67 yards to Jim Grabowski and 25 yards to Boyd Dowler as the Packers took a 28-10 lead into the final period and seemed to have the game wrapped up. But the Bears rallied for 17 points in the final period, clinaxed by Jack Connon's 51-yard TD pass to Dick Gordon.

There was still time for a Mac Percival field goal and the Bears almost had a shot at it when they got the ball back and moved to a first down in the Packer 44 with than two minutes left. But after Connon was thrown for a loss and two passes were incomplete, the Bears were faced with a 4th and 15 on the 48.

It was too much to ask Percival to try a 55-yard field goal so the Bears went for the first down. But Nitschke intercepted a Connon pass to preserve the Packer win.

The Vikings were in their dressing room listening to a play-by-play of the Packer triumph via the phone after they had beaten the Eagles. Joe Kapp tossed two touchdown passes and ran for a third to give the Vikings the victory over the Eagles, who wound up at 12-12.

There wasn't much drama left to the game but Baltimore went out to prove to the Los Angeles Rams that the Colts deserved their Coastal Division crown. The Colts were handed the title last week when the Bears upset the Rams but the Colts proved the right team was the champion as they beat the Rams for the second time this year.

The Colts' 13-1 record is the

The Vols hit a red-hot 69 per cent of their shots in the first half and left the floor at intermission with a 17-point lead, 37-20. Tech's talented sophomore, Rich Yunkus, was held to eight points in the first half, but came back to score 22 points for the game.

Bill Justus, with 20 points, led Tennessee scorers.

Murray High Tigers Scalp Benton Indians 80 To 71

By United Press International

The Murray High Tigers beat the Benton Indians in a game at Murray High last night 80-71. The Tigers were red hot in their shooting as they hit 69% from the field and 30 of their points in the fourth period.

The game seemed to be played on an equal basis until Murray High found the formula for breaking the Indians zone press in the last quarter.

High scorers for Murray were Albert Scott and Pat Lamb with 23 and 16 points respectively. Allan Hudspeth also hit in double figures for the Tigers with 14 points, all scored in the final quarter, and Lee

Bride-elect Given White Bible In YWA Ceremony

The Young Women's Auxiliary of the Hazel Baptist Church recently presented Miss Paula Cook with a white Bible in a special ceremony at the church.

This presentation is given to those members of the auxiliary who are about to be married.

After a prelude of organ music by Mrs. John White, seven members and their leader, Mrs. Danny Outland, walked down the center aisle of the darkened church carrying multi-colored, lighted candles to the front of the church where Miss Cook and Jerry Duncan, the groom-elect, were seated.

All the girls wore either dresses of white or green, the YWA colors.

A simple ceremony was read by Mrs. Outland and Bro. B. R. Winchester, pastor of the church. The YWA members responded in unity parts of the service. Mrs. J. G. Adams, president of the Women's Missionary Society, presented the white Bible to Miss Cook.

Bro. Winchester gave the invocation and ended the service.

Give Alligator His Hide For Christmas, Is Slogan

"Give an alligator his hide for Christmas." That's the slogan the National Audubon Society would like to spread across the country this season to persuade people NOT to buy alligator handbags or accessories as gifts.

It's part of a continuing campaign carried out by the national conservation organization to stop the illegal slaughter of the fast-disappearing American alligator.

The slogan was born in Cincinnati, where local Audubon societies used it to rally opposition to a prominent department store's ad suggesting alligator bags as the ideal Christmas gift.

One Audubon member alerted others in the Society and organized a campaign. A local columnist did a story about the drive. Next day the store received a flood of telephone calls objecting to the ad. Some customers went to the store personally to speak to the buyer. Others wrote letters.

Before long the buyer in the handbag department vowed she wouldn't buy another alligator handbag for anything in the world. Cincinnati Audubon members then started a plan to spread their campaign throughout the state.

As one of the Cincinnati campaigners put it: "In many cases, the people selling these goods just don't know that their ads, creating a demand for merchandise made from the animal's hide, are rapidly bringing the animal to the edge of extinction—particularly in this time of affluence when more and more luxury items are sold."

This is typical of the local Audubon campaigns, not only to save the alligator but also to stop the sale of the furs of endangered animals from other continents—such as the leopard, cheetah and ocelot.

The appeal is to reason. Recommended tactics are visit or write to an owner whose store runs an ad for alligator bags or furs coats, explaining the conservationist position. If this request to stop the sale of the articles doesn't work, then the membership is mobilized to write letters and make telephone calls.

If there still is no cooperation from the store, charge account customers are organized to write, saying they will close out their accounts unless the store's policy is changed.

Going at it from another direction, several national organizations, including Audubon, recently started a campaign to try to persuade leading newspapers to refuse to accept these ads in the first place.

Once in a while, more flamboyant methods are used. One group of New York women representing a number of different conservation clubs—picketed a Fifth Avenue store protesting the sale of rare furs. They didn't make a dent in the store's policy, but they received wide publicity. Some months later, the first break-through came when one New York furrier announced he would not sell furs made from the hides of endangered species.

Thus Audubon is trying to change public attitudes. Practically all American alligator hides that reach the market are illegally taken by poachers—often in the Everglades or other national preserves. A vivid description of the cruel and illegal activities of these poachers was printed in Audubon magazine this fall.

By educational exposes such as this, the Society hopes, as one member put it, "to make women feel ashamed to carry alligator bags or be seen in ocelot."

If it's luxury they want, this can be supplied by alligator-grain leathers now being produced that cost as much and look as "smart" as the real thing.

At the same time the Society feels the best answer is making the product unavailable. The final victory in its turn-of-the-century fight to save the egret came with the passage of a law making it illegal to buy, sell or wear egret feathers.

The last Congress considered a bill to prohibit interstate shipment of alligator and other hides taken illegally. It also included a provision banning the importation of endangered species from abroad.

Officers from Audubon and other conservation organizations gave expert testimony on behalf of the bill. Individual members of Audubon and many other organizations wrote their Congressmen, urging the bill's passage. The House did pass the bill, with no opposition expressed. But late in the session, the fur traders mobilized to voice loud objections to the measure. It was stalled in the Senate and died when Congress adjourned.

Undoubtedly, it will be revived, though, in the 91st Congress. And meantime, Audubon members are working to spread their campaign to "Give an alligator his hide for Christmas."

Dr. Carl Brown Heads Near East Studies At Princeton

DR. L. CARL BROWN

Princeton, N. J. — Dr. L. Carl Brown, 40-year-old Associate Professor of Oriental Studies, has been named Director of Princeton University's Program in Near Eastern Studies, effective February 1. It was reported today by Dr. Robert F. Goheen, President of the University.

Professor Brown, a graduate of Vanderbilt University and Harvard, succeeds Professor T. Cuyler Young, the Horatio Whitridge Garrett Professor of Persian Language and History who has headed the Near Eastern Studies Program for the past year, as he did from 1954 until 1962.

The new director, a native of Mayfield, Ky., began a six-year period of service with the U.S. Foreign Service in 1953, serving in Beirut, Lebanon, where he spent 18 months in the American Embassy's Arabic Language and Area Training Program, and then in Khartoum, Sudan, where he was the Embassy's economic officer. He is the son of Mrs. Carl Brown, 618 So. 2nd and married the former Ann Stokes of Mayfield.

Returning to the United States in 1958, Dr. Brown attended Harvard University, completing his Ph.D. in history and Middle Eastern studies in 1962. From 1962 until 1966 he was on the faculty at Harvard as an Assistant Professor of Middle Eastern Studies.

In 1946-47 he served on active duty with the U. S. Air Force, and following graduation from Vanderbilt in 1950, he attended the University of Virginia and the London School of Economics before entering the Foreign Service.

Co-author of Tunisia: The Politics of Modernization (1964) and editor of State and Society in Independent North Africa, Professor Brown is a specialist in the modern history of the Near East and North Africa, with particular emphasis on the Arabic-speaking world. He is the translator (with commentary) of The Surest Path — The Political Treatise of a 19th Century Muslim Statesman (1967). He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the African Studies Association, the Middle East Institute, and the Middle East Studies Association.

Dr. Young, 68, a lifelong student and analyst of Near Eastern Affairs, has been on the Princeton faculty since 1947, and has been instrumental in making Princeton a leading center in America for the study of the Near East and the Islamic world. He became chairman of the Department of Oriental Studies, which he continues to head, in

A native of Moosic, Pa., Professor Young is a graduate of the College of Wooster, Princeton and Princeton Theological Seminary, and received an honorary Doctor of Letters degree in 1960 from Wooster.

LINCOLN, England (UPI)—Pop art posters, armchairs painted in psychedelic colors and loudspeakers playing Beethoven music have replaced the "silence" signs in a new wing of Lincoln's Central Library.

Library director Thomas Baker explained "many teenagers do not like normal libraries. We are giving them a pop atmosphere to put them at ease." The whole aim, he said, was to lure the teenagers back to books.

Big School
NEW YORK (UPI)—Enrollment in the New York State University system totals 159,400 students this year, an increase of 21,000 over the last academic year. In addition, there are 100,339 part time students this year. There are 63 State University campuses now conducting classes across the state. Four new locations were opened in 1968.

"SILENT NIGHT" CHAPEL—Austria is in a month-long celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Christmas carol "Silent Night," and this is the chapel, built in 1937, on the site of the original St. Nicholas Church where Josef Mohr wrote the lyrics and Franz Gruber wrote the music, for guitar. They composed it a few hours before midnight mass in 1818, and as ill luck would have it, the organ broke down.

Guest Appearance Calls For Menu Magic

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

IF YOU are fresh out of novel ideas for company's coming menus, cast an eye on the main dishes suggested today. They share several virtues. Each is offbeat and that is important for meals making guest appearances. An unusual entree adds zest and enjoyment to the occasion.

In addition, each is easy to make and on the economical side, features that will find favor with homemakers who have to budget both time and money.

Both Swedish Fish Souffle and Fettucine Florelio can be accompanied with a crisp tossed salad and hot garlic bread, as can Greek Meatballs, which should be served on fluffy white rice.

FETTUCCINE FIORELLO
1/4 pound sweet butter
1 1/2 ounces cooked smoked tongue, cut in strips
1 1/2 ounces raw, smoked bacon, cut in strips
1 1/2 ounces prosciutto, cut in strips
1 tablespoon A.I. Sauce
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 pound fettucine (or spaghetti) cooked al dente
2 ounces grated parmesan cheese

In large saucepan, melt butter, adding tongue, bacon and prosciutto. Sauté 5 to 8 minutes, until browned. Add A.I. pepper and half of heavy cream.

When ingredients have sautéed for two minutes, add fettucine, remaining cream and remaining black pepper. Remove from flame, sprinkle with parmesan cheese and serve on hot plates.

FLAVORFUL SECRETS of Fettucine Florelio include: tongue, bacon, A.I. Sauce, butter.

Serves 4.
SWEDISH FISH SOUFFLE

1 1/2 pounds haddock
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
4 eggs separated
1 tablespoon A.I. Sauce
Grated cheese

Cut fish into 3 or 4 slices and place in pot. Pour over it enough hot water to cover and cook for 20 minutes. Let cool.

Reserve stock and flake fish from skin and bone making 2 to 3 cups fish flakes.

Prepare cream sauce by melting butter. To this add flour, milk and 1 cup fish stock (in which fish has boiled). Add fish, salt and pepper. Remove from fire. Beat egg yolks and stir into mixture. Mix in A.I. Sauce. Cool. Fold in beaten egg whites.

Bake in 6-cup souffle dish about 30 minutes at 375 F. or until crust is nicely browned. About 10 minutes before it is done, sprinkle top lightly with cheese.

GREEK MEATBALLS
1 pound ground meat, lamb or beef
1 small onion, grated
1/2 cup raw rice
Mint (chopped) to taste
Salt and pepper
Flour
Meat stock

Combine meat, onion, rice, mint, salt and pepper to taste. Place in refrigerator for half an hour.

Remove meat from refrigerator and roll into small meatballs. Roll in flour and drop into simmering stock. Cook until meat is tender, approximately 35 minutes.

Note: If no stock is available, use 3 bouillon cubes dissolved in 3 cups water. Bring to a boil, add meatballs and cook until meat is tender.

SALAD SUGGESTIONS
When serving salad with a company meal, make it special by using several greens. Choose from romaine, iceberg, bibb or Boston lettuce, spinach, chlorey, watercress or escarole.

In addition to tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes and onions, try any of the following in a salad: drained canned artichoke hearts; green pepper strips; crumbled Roquefort or Cheddar cheese; canned or cooked stringbeans; sliced avocados.

To season your salad dressing select from these herbs: oregano, thyme, marjoram, basil, parsley, garlic, salt, paprika.

RISE TO THE OCCASION with Swedish Fish Souffle. Serve with tossed salad, hot bread.

Meet Charolais Bull, Calloway Now Popular in U.S.

By RAY BARTH

Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper—AN ANIMAL which in France shares the house with the rest of the family has found a place in the American home, but with "le difference!"

The silver Charolais is almost a family pet on small French farms. In the United States it is beefsteak on the table.

Charolais (shar-o-lay) are the fastest growing breed in the cattle industry in the world. From the largest Charolais ranches in Texas to the smallest in Wisconsin, the reason given for the popularity of the silver cattle is the same: faster gain.

Emmanuel B. Fuchs of Monroe, Wis., who crosses Charolais bulls with Hereford cows, says his cattle go to market "two months sooner" than his Herefords ever did.

"CATTLEMEN get more beef for their investment," is the way James Van Horne of Daggett, Calif., put it.

Don and Charles Shager of South Wayne, Wis., reported the same fast growth when crossing Charolais with Angus cows. By repeated crossbreeding they will have a strain of 15/16th Charolais in a few years.

If Charolais are so good, why bother crossing them with other breeds? The answer lies in the cost and scarcity of Charolais, according to Fuchs, who rents, but does not own a bull. The Shager brothers paid $2,500 for their first bull calf and thought it a bargain. Charolais bulls are bringing as much as $100,000 to $250,000 for a single animal.

Getting a Charolais bull is not easy in the United States. Imports from France are barred until that country goes a full year without any reports of hoof and mouth disease.

American cattlemen get their Charolais through Canada, the Bahamas, Japan, Mexico and the tiny French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon off Newfoundland.

Since 1966 Canada imported 664 Charolais from France, and of that number 183 found their way to the U.S.

In Canada they were quarantined for five months and checked for infection before release, according to the Canadian Agriculture Department.

Reedie Stall, 73, Dies; Rites Set

CADIZ, Ky., Dec. 17—Reedie C. Stall, 73, a resident of Cadiz, died Tuesday at 2:30 a.m. in Lourdes Hospital, Paducah. He had been ill for about a year.

He was a native of Stewart County, Tenn., and a member of Crockett's Creek Baptist Church. He was a timber man and sawmill operator.

He is survived by one son, James R. Stall of Detroit, Mich., and two sisters, Mrs. T. G. Winfield of Paducah and Mrs. Albert Wallace of Cadiz.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at Goodwin Funeral Home. Burial will be in East End Cemetery.

far away as General Counsel for the Woodmen of the World at Omaha, Neb., he would make elaborate and detailed plans to come home to Murray for the holidays. He loved his foxhounds and his card games with his relatives and friends of former days.

He once wrote that his favorite hymn was "Battle Hymn of the Republic." His most beloved song was "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," and the Twenty-Third Psalm was his chosen Biblical passage.

His favorite food? "Country sausage, gravy and hot biscuits."

Dr. Wells listed three persons who had the most influence on his life: "Other than my family, Professor G. H. Throop, Chancellor Alfred Holbrook, and Bishop H. A. Boaz."

Today on the campus at Murray State University—perhaps snow-covered at Christmas time—the footprints of Dr. Wells are still evident. In the center of the front campus is his old home, now being refurbished and renovated as the campus home of President and Mrs. Harry M. Sparks. Its exterior is virtually the same as it was when Dr. and Mrs. Wells dreamed their dreams of a great university in their backyard.

Friends of Wells and alumni regard this home as the "birthplace" of Murray State University. The same old oaks are there, and the southwest corner of the campus remains as it was in those early days. The first sidewalk is still there—in the bush of a Christmas afternoon you will see, perchance, a Murray alum strolling and thinking of bygone days and Dr. Wells.

The old sidewalk leads to the old Administration Building built by the citizens of Murray and Calloway County. It is now known as Wether Hall. It studiously reflects the foresight and planning of the Wells era, for it truly was a gift of the community to Murray State.

Then there is Wells Hall, built in 1928 and named for the founder of this college. The auditorium, another dream of Dr. Wells, was one of the finest in the Southland when it was built and it is still one of the most beautiful. Wilson Hall, the Library, Training School and Ordway Hall were other structures envisioned and built by Dr. Wells and his regents.

When he resigned from the presidency to go to Omaha in 1933, the leaving of his life, his relatives and associates almost broke his heart. He became a great attorney and executive for Woodmen of the World and was responsible for legislation and adjudication that involved millions of dollars.

"I was attending a musical program in a great auditorium in Omaha one evening," he related to friends, "and I requested that the artist of the evening sing 'My Old Kentucky Home.' Tears came in his eyes as he remembered the occasion. 'I'm telling you, we almost packed up and came home to Murray that night.' Upon retirement from the Woodmen of the World duties, he and Mrs. Wells did come back to live their remaining years in their beautiful home south of the city. He died June 15, 1958.

When a former faculty member visited him a short time before his death, Dr. Wells grasped the hand of his friend and quoted in a clear, ringing voice the entire poem, "Cross the Bar." And as he started the poem with the words, "Sunset and evening star," somehow it seemed that this was the Christmas star under which he was born on Christmas Day, December 25, 1875.

Dr. Wells, who joined the Murray State faculty in 1904, was also selected to have his biography to appear in three other lists this year: "Who's Who in the South and Southwest, 1967-68," "Community Leaders in America, 1968," and "Leaders in American Science, 1968-69."

A native of Tennessee Ridge, Tenn., Irwin earned the B. A. and the M. S. degrees at the University of Tennessee and taught there for two years prior to coming to Murray.

He served as acting chairman of the geography division from 1965-67, and acting chairman of the MSU social science department this past summer.

Faculty sponsor of Gamma Theta Upsilon, honorary geography fraternity at Murray State, he was elected president of the Kentucky Council of Geography Teachers in April.

He is a member of the Association of American Geographers, the National Council of Geography Teachers, Gamma Theta Upsilon, and the American Geographic Society of New York.

COUNTDOWN TO THE MOON

Dr. Werner von Braun at the Apollo-Saturn Complex 39A.

VON BRAUN: SPACE CRUSADER

By JOHN C. KRANER
Central Press Science Writer

IN THE year 1955, before the first Sputnik, how would you have gone about convincing the U.S. government of the importance of building giant rockets to orbit earth satellites, establish a base on the Moon and explore the planets of our solar system?

This was the goal that Dr. Werner von Braun, a new citizen of this country and a world-renowned rocket scientist, had set his sights on. It was the dream he had as a teen-ager in the Germany before Hitler and it was his lifetime goal of travel to the stars that led to his arrest in 1944 by the Nazis for refusing to construct V-2 rockets with warheads, as ordered.

Von Braun's escape, with 127 of his top engineers, put him once again in the position of building rockets for war, this time for the U.S. Army Ballistic Missile Agency.

His goals had not changed. In 1948 he delivered his first scientific paper on the importance of orbiting satellites, and began publishing articles in family magazines on the impact of the space age soon to come.

IN HIS SPARE time he wrote books on the exploration of the Moon and Mars and with Walt Disney produced the first technically accurate movie on the exploration of space.

He was asked to lecture across the country, and became known as the super salesman and prophet of space. During this period he was often considered a curiosity and an oddball, generally rejected by the American scientific community.

On Dec. 14, 1957, testifying before a U.S. Senate subcommittee, Dr. von Braun made the first formal proposal to create an independent national space agency with a long-range goal of the conquest of space and the first milestone—the orbiting of a man by 1962.

On Oct. 1, 1958, NASA was established and in 1960 Von Braun became director of the Marshall Space Flight Center, where, under his direction, 5,500 scientists, engineers and technicians began assembling and testing the world's largest

IT WOULD be inaccurate to credit any one individual for completion of a milestone considered impossible only 10 years ago. This first step to the Moon has been a group effort of more than 350,000 Americans, but in interviews for this series, the name most often mentioned was Werner von Braun, super salesman and space crusader.

For Children
Of All Ages
MANILA (UPI) — The children's playground at Luneta Park allowed adults inside the fenced premises only if accompanied by a child. This apparently caused no end of frustrations for unaccompanied adults who wanted to swing and teeter-totter on the seesaws.

Now a new playground in the Park allows grownups to swing and teeter-totter to their dizzying self-content.

Big Brother
PT. LEWIS, Wash. (UPI) — Big Brother was watching Pvt. Duane Lively, Fremont, Neb., as he underwent basic training at this Army base.

The private's brother is Sgt. George Lively, who recently returned from Korea and was assigned as a combat instructor of Duane Lively's company.

It takes almost two years to apply a 40-ton coat of paint to the 1,056-foot Eiffel Tower in Paris.

Former Resident Plays Key Role In Moon Mission

DOWNEY, Calif. — James M. Ross, formerly of Mayfield, is a member of the engineering team that will monitor the flight of the Apollo 8 spacecraft when it carries the first American astronauts to the vicinity of the moon and back later this month.

Ross is an expert in the field of spacecraft environmental control. He and other engineers of North American Rockwell Corporation Space Division will be stationed at monitoring facilities at Houston, Texas, and Downey, Calif.

Under NASA contracts, the Space Division, headquartered at Downey, builds both the Apollo spacecraft command and service modules and the second stage of the giant Saturn V vehicle that will boost the spacecraft toward the moon.

Space Division specialists at the Mission Control Center at Houston and at North American Rockwell in Downey will maintain round-the-clock telecommunications contact with the spacecraft during the flight to make sure that performance of the various systems is satisfactory.

Each member of the team is an expert in the operation of a particular system or subsystem. In case of any malfunction, they will determine the corrective action to be taken.

Ross is supervisor of environmental control system requirements at the Space Division. During the Apollo 8 flight he will be monitoring and evaluating the performance of the environmental control system in the spacecraft. This system provides a controlled environment, including the proper heat, cooling, pressure, oxygen supply and hot and cold water. He will be stationed at Houston.

Regarding his part in the Apollo program, Ross said: "Having spent nearly seven years on the Apollo program as environmental control systems supervisor and engineer, I feel that I have played an important part in the environmental control systems development. The program is the most significant space venture for some time to come."

Ross is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Ross of 322 W. Lee St., Mayfield. He attended Mayfield High School. He was graduated from the University of Miami with a Bachelor of Science degree in aeronautical engineering.

Ross and his wife, Judy, live at 509 Green Lane, Redondo Beach, Calif.

The Apollo 8 flight will be the first manned flight in which the Saturn V will be the launch vehicle. The 36-story tall rocket, the free world's largest, will be launched from NASA's Kennedy Space Center off the east coast of Florida.

The Apollo 8 mission will be the first U.S. manned flight to the vicinity of the moon. Planned for launch December 21, the Apollo 8 is scheduled to reach the moon on December 24, make 10 revolutions about that body over a 20-hour period, then begin its return to earth on

'Quickie TV'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A small, mobile ground station— an electronics-stuffed hut and a 16-foot antenna—was assembled in five weeks and shipped within 24 hours aboard an cargo plane by Hughes Aircraft Company to provide live television coverage of the Pope's visit to Bogota, Colombia.

Christmas.

When Apollo 8's three-man astronaut crew lands in the Pacific Ocean it will bring to a conclusion a history-making mission spanning approximately seven days and more than half a million miles. Although it will not be the longest trip by American astronauts as far as time in space is concerned, it will be by far the deepest manned penetration of space.

TO MONITOR MOON FLIGHT — James M. Ross, formerly of Mayfield, is a member of the engineering team that will monitor the flight of the Apollo 8 spacecraft when it carries the first American astronauts to the vicinity of the moon and back.

Ross is an environmental control system expert at the Space Division of North American Rockwell Corporation, builder of the Apollo spacecraft command and service modules and the second stage of the Saturn V launch vehicle.

Hobby Hobbled

SAFFRON WALDEN, England (UPI) — Railway enthusiast Gerald Pagano gave up the idea of buying the last steam locomotive to run on British Railways when told it would cost him 5,000 pounds ($12,000) to have it put on the line and towed 200 miles to his home. Columbia Pictures, which now owns the locomotive, had offered to sell it to him for 1,700 pounds ($4,080).

South Pasadena, at 3.4 square miles, is the smallest city in area in California.

Heavy New Year

GREETINGS IN JAPAN TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese will send 1.55 billion New Year's greetings this year, an increase of 5 per cent over last, according to the Postal and Telecommunications Ministry.

The cards are a headache for the Ministry. In last year's New Year's season, more than 40 million New Year cards did not reach their destinations because of unreadable handwritten addresses.

When the eight-story YMCA was opened in 1908 it dominated the Los Angeles skyline.
